The practice of medicine is ever-changing, bringing forth a host of issues and advances for the successful physician's consideration. Regardless of your specialty, all physicians must adhere to the New Jersey requirements for prescribing controlled dangerous substances. During this program, attendees will review recent changes to the laws and their implications to medical practice.

Presenter:

Lana Ros, Esq. | Norris McLaughlin P.A.

At the end of this seminar the physician participants will be able to:

1. Review and understand the regulations limiting the prescribing of controlled dangerous substances (CDS) for acute pain.
2. Review and understand the regulations governing the prescribing of CDS for chronic pain.
3. Recognize and assess various problem areas in prescribing CDS as well as safety measures to implement to prevent being investigated by the DEA and the New Jersey State Board of Medical Examiners.
